Paper 4 Alternative to Coursework

February/March 2025

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 40

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the February/March 2025 series for most Cambridge IGCSE, Cambridge International A and AS Level components, and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 26 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptions for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

Annotations guidance for centres

Examiners use a system of annotations as a shorthand for communicating their marking decisions to one another. Examiners are trained during the standardisation process on how and when to use annotations. The purpose of annotations is to inform the standardisation and monitoring processes and guide the supervising examiners when they are checking the work of examiners within their team. The meaning of annotations and how they are used is specific to each component and is understood by all examiners who mark the component.

We publish annotations in our mark schemes to help centres understand the annotations they may see on copies of scripts. Note that there may not be a direct correlation between the number of annotations on a script and the mark awarded. Similarly, the use of an annotation may not be an indication of the quality of the response.

The annotations listed below were available to examiners marking this component in this series.

Guidance on using levels-based mark schemes

Marking of work should be positive, rewarding achievement where possible, but clearly differentiating across the whole range of marks, where appropriate.

The marker should look at the work and then make a judgement about which level statement is the 'best fit'. In practice, work does not always match one level statement precisely so a judgement may need to be made between two or more level statements.

Once a 'best-fit' level statement has been identified, use the following guidance to decide on a specific mark:

- Where the candidate's work convincingly meets the level statement, you should award the highest mark.
- Where the candidate's work adequately meets the level statement, you should award the most appropriate mark in the middle of the range.
- Where the candidate's work just meets the level statement, you should award the lowest mark.

Assessment objectivesAO1

An ability to recall, select, organise and deploy knowledge of the syllabus content.

AO2

An ability to construct historical explanations using an understanding of:

- cause and consequence, change and continuity, similarity and difference
- the motives, emotions, intentions and beliefs of people in the past.

Table A

Use this table to give marks for each candidate response for AO1 for part (a) of each question.

Level	Description	Marks
3	Account includes the main events/developments and directly addresses the question. Account is consistently supported by accurate historical knowledge. Account is logically sequenced.	11–15
2	Account describes some events/developments relevant to the question. Account is mostly supported by accurate historical knowledge. Account is structured in its approach.	6–10
1	Response has limited relevance to the question. Response includes some accurate historical knowledge. Points made are generally unconnected.	1–5
0	No creditable material.	0

Table B

Use this table to give marks for each candidate response for AO2 for part (b) of each question.

Level	Description	Marks
5	An answer that presents more than one facet of the discussion. Uses well-supported explanations in support of more than one facet of the discussion. Reaches a clear, convincing and substantiated judgement on relative importance.	21–25
4	An answer that presents more than one facet of the discussion. Explanations are used to support the facets presented. May attempt a judgement, which is partially supported.	16–20
3	An answer that presents one or more facets of the discussion. Explanation(s) are used to support only one of the facets presented. May attempt a judgement, which is unsupported.	11–15
2	An answer that attempts to address one or more facets but only using assertion. May include relevant comments linked to a facet but these will be undeveloped or implicit. May attempt a generalised judgement, which is mostly asserted.	6–10
1	An answer that presents general knowledge of the topic. Describes or identifies some points with limited focus. No attempt at judgement, or, where an attempt has been made, it is very general and undeveloped.	1–5
0	No creditable material.	0

Question	Answer	Marks
1(a)	Write an account of the Arab Revolt. Indicative content Accounts may include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Between 1914–5, British governor in Egypt had been encouraging the Sharif of Mecca and other Arab leaders to overthrow Ottoman rule. • The British promised weapons, arms and financial support for a revolt and an independent state for the Arabs. • The Sharif, Hussein, recruited 50 000 troops but they were ill-equipped and poorly trained. • In June 1916, the Arabs attacked Mecca and Medina, but the Turks held them back. • Other allied Arab leaders attacked the Ottoman-held ports on the Red Sea in 1916, and by September they had captured Jeddah and other ports, allowing the British to ship in artillery and reinforcements. • Captain T Lawrence (of Arabia) worked closely with Emir Feisal to capture the port of Wejh in 1916. • The Arab forces along with Lawrence attacked the Hejaz railway in 1917, damaging Turkish supply lines. • The port of Aqaba was captured in 1917, which allowed the Arab forces to link up with nationalists in Damascus. • In October 1917, Lawrence coordinated the Arab forces with the British Egyptian Expeditionary Force under General Allenby, who achieved a major victory near Jerusalem. • By October 1918, the Ottomans were near defeat. Accept any other valid responses.	15

Question	Answer	Marks
1(b)	Discuss the importance of Lawrence of Arabia. Indicative content Responses may consider the following facets: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Military importance – Lawrence coordinated attacks with both the Arab and British forces in the region throughout 1916–7. • Strategic importance – Lawrence linked up support with Syria, who were encouraged to attack the Ottoman Empire; he helped capture major ports to allow British shipping access; he damaged supply lines by attacking key railways in the region. • Political importance – formed close relationships with Emir Feisal and the Syrian nationalists; Lawrence’s exploits were reported in the British media and boosted morale at home. • Not that important – stories of Lawrence were often exaggerated; other notables in the region included Gertrude Bell and other French and British officers, as well as some Arab leaders etc. Accept any other valid responses.	25

Question	Answer	Marks
3(a)	Write an account of economic developments in Weimar Germany between 1923 and 1929. Indicative content Accounts may include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Invasion of the Ruhr led to passive resistance; the government printed money to pay the striking workers, leading to hyperinflation and the collapse of the mark. • 1923 saw Stresemann appointed as Chancellor to deal with hyperinflation crisis and Ruhr occupation. • Stresemann promised to call off passive resistance. • He used the Reichsbank to recall worthless Papiermark currency and introduced a temporary currency, the Rentenmark, in 1923, ending hyperinflation. • In 1924, he signed the Dawes Plan which allowed 800 000 gold marks of loans from the USA. • These loans were used to invest in infrastructure and public works. • The Dawes Plan also decreased the reparations Germany had to pay and promised an end to the Ruhr occupation (France left in 1925). • Germany had increased production by 50% by 1928, and trade had reached pre-war levels. • The Young Plan in 1929 decreased reparations further. Accept any other valid responses.	15

Question	Answer	Marks
3(b)	Discuss the importance of the Dawes Plan (1924) and the Young Plan (1929) for Germany. Indicative content Responses may consider the following facets: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Economic importance – US loans propped up the new currency, the Reichsmark, and brought economic prosperity to many Germans by the mid-1920s; pre-war levels of production were achieved by 1928; reparation payments were reduced by both plans, easing the economic burden faced by Germany; the Dawes Plan did make the German economy reliant on US loans. • Political and territorial importance – the plans increased ties with the USA; the French left the Ruhr in 1925; Stresemann received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1925 for the Dawes Plan, and Germany was admitted into the League of Nations in 1926; there was a small, but significant, increase of seats for anti-Dawes Plan parties, like the DNVP, in the Reichstag in the 1924 Federal elections. • Social and cultural importance – stabilised Germany’s middle classes and some workers; culture in urban centres, such as Berlin, flourished with the new wealth; the Golden Era of cinema, art, nightlife and music; no significant revolts or putsches; support for extremists declined rapidly by mid-1920s etc. • The Young Plan not that important – Stresemann’s death in 1929, and the subsequent Crash in the USA, led to US loans being recalled, plunging Germany into a depression. Accept any other valid responses.	25
